

Paper in a Day workshop

Pre-conference workshop European Grief Conference

September 21 2022, Copenhagen

By dr. Lonneke Lenferink and prof. dr. Paul Boelen

Early career researchers are the future's research leaders. The grief field would benefit from cross-border collaborations and movement towards open science. To foster collaborations among researchers and to bring open science into practice a Paper in a Day Workshop will be offered. This workshop aims to stimulate international connections among early career researchers and the exchange of ideas by conducting a one-day pre-conference workshop. This workshop aims to result in an empirical paper to be submitted to an open-access international peer-reviewed journal.

MARBLES

During the workshop existing data will be used from the data-archive Measurements Archive of Reactions to Bereavement from Longitudinal European Studies (MARBLES) MARLBES is led by dr. Lonneke Lenferink (University of Twente/Utrecht/Groningen, NL) and prof. dr. Paul Boelen (Utrecht University & ARQ National Psychotrauma centre). This data-archive contains data on psychological complaints collected among over 5000 bereaved people. The data-archive alligns with the FAIR principles and is part of the Global Collaboration on Traumatic Stress that is supported by the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies (ISTSS) for more details, see the following two links:

Paper in a Day editions

Paper in a Day workshop is initiated by dr. Eva Alisic (zie <https://trauma-recovery.net/>). During various psychotrauma conferences from the ISTSS and ESTSS, she hosted this workshop which resulted in scientific articles, conference presentations, and new research projects. Dr. Lonneke Lenferink hosted a Paper in a Day workshop during a psychotrauma conference from the ESTSS in 2019, which resulted in the following paper: <https://doi.org/10.1080/20008198.2020.1717156>.

The "recipe"

As the name suggests, Paper in a Day is intensively concentrated on one day, September 21; the day prior to the European Grief Conference. To ensure the success of the project, Paper in a Day involves activities before and after the conference. Before the workshop the candidates will be in touch to divide preparatory tasks (e.g., searching for literature, defining research questions, running analyses). The ideal group size appears to be 6 to 8 candidates (although an earlier workshop successfully included 11 participants). Paper in a Day is focused on early career researchers, including PhD-students or people who obtained their PhD less than 5 years ago.

Sign up

Early career researchers who intend to attend the European Grief Conference 2022 in Copenhagen are eligible to sign up for the workshop by sending a short C.V. (maximum of one page) + motivation and ideas for research questions you would like to answer during the workshop to l.i.m.lenferink@utwente.nl.

About the workshop hosts dr. Lonneke Lenferink and prof. dr. Paul Boelen

Lonneke is an assistant professor at the University of Twente, University of Groningen, and Utrecht University (NL) and a visiting researcher at the University of New South Wales (AUS). She is a board member of the Dutch Society for Traumatic Stress Studies and Bereavement Network Europe.

Her research is focused on the definition, assessment, prediction, and treatment of disturbed grief in bereaved adults and children, with a specific interest in traumatic losses. In projects among people who experienced losses because of a long-term disappearance, homicide, MH17 plane disaster, traffic accident, and COVID-19 she examined risk factors and treatment of distress. You can read her work on:
